Dear Tara,

Have you been to the National Commission for the Certification of Crane Operators (NCCCO) website recently? Please take a few minutes (less than five) to complete the Website Survey, and help us make the website easier to use.

This month in CCOnline, read about the latest certification program that NCCCO will be developing, see how NCCCO put to good use Morrow Equipment Company's newly expanded state-of-the-art training center, find out how attendees of the SC&RA Annual Conference started their morning, meet some of the new NCCCO Commissioners (and see a photo gallery of their recent meeting), and learn how NCCCO is helping to prepare North Carolina for its new requirements affecting the industry.

Thank you for your participation in CCO programs and your continued support of NCCCO.

NCCCO & CCAA to Develop Certification Program for Crane Certifiers

The Crane Certification Association of America (CCAA) and the National Commission for the Certification of Crane Operators (NCCCO) announced plans to develop cooperatively a certification program for crane inspectors, also known as "crane certifiers" or "crane surveyors."

Workshop Prepares NC For Stricter Requirements

The National Commission for the Certification of Crane Operators (NCCCO) held a Practical Examiner Accreditation Workshop for its newest certification program-for operators of articulating boom cranes and loaders-on April 7-9, 2010 at COCI, Inc. in Stanley, NC. As the first state to adopt OSHA's Proposed Federal Rule on cranes (C-DAC), North Carolina is leading the way in adopting this new certification program, and the workshop quickly filled to capacity.
